Hay Relief Program Fate Now Up to Washington

Austin, Jan. 8. (AP)—The future of Texas' hay relief program for drought areas today depended on more funds from Washington.

In Washington, an Agriculture Department official said he expected more funds to be allocated for Texas and that the decision probably would be reached today.

The spokesman, M. V. Braswell, Commodity Stabilization Service official in charge of the hay program, declined to estimate how much more money Texas might get.

Program Closed Tonight
State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said yesterday he is temporarily closing down the hay program at midnight tonight so his office can check up on whether all the grants already made for hay shipments actually will be used.

If they are, White said, that will exhaust present funds.

After that, continuation of the program depends on more Federal funds.

Shivers in Capital
Gov. Allan Shivers went to Washington earlier this week to make a personal request for more funds for the State.

Texas had $889,000 available for the hay program. White said shipments during the program's first 60 days had encumbered nearly all of that.

He said he would halt the program "rather than make rail shipment commitments that cannot be fulfilled."

Initial Talks On Atomic Pool To Begin Monday

Washington, Jan. 8. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Ambassador Georgi M. Zarubin will begin preliminary atomic talks next Monday, diplomatic authorities reported today.

The State Department press office for the time being announced only that the talks will begin next week, but informed diplomats said Zarubin has an appointment at the State Department at 10:30 a. m. EST Monday.

The Soviet and American governments agreed earlier in the week that Dulles and Zarubin should confer on the time, place and other arrangements for more formal discussions on President Eisenhower's proposal to create an international atomic pool for peaceful purposes.

Home Town Stuff

By R. H. NICHOLS

This really belongs on the sports page. But a friend suggested that I write something about it and since there seems to be a scarcity of other and more suitable subjects for this column I will comply. It is about the dropping of Altus from the football schedule of the Vernon Lions. The complaint of this customer was that Altus is only a short drive from Vernon and the rivalry has extended over a long period. For these reasons he points out that the attendance is usually good and expenses light, making the game a profitable one. These factors are important in the opinion of this particular fan since Vernon was placed in a district with schools ranging from 150 to 250 miles away. Long distance between towns means greater travel expense for the team and reduced attendance. When competing teams are from towns no more than an hour's automobile drive apart, fans from both towns attend.

There seems to be logic in that contention, but no doubt there are good and sufficient reasons for discontinuing the Altus-Vernon football game each year. Besides there is no reason to believe that relations will not be resumed if the change doesn't work out to the satisfaction of all concerned. So far as I am concerned, I have more urgent problems claiming attention, such as how to pay an income tax after you have spent all your money. Consequently I will let the people who know about such matters as football schedules take care of the discussion of the Altus game.

M. R. Sewell made a welcome discovery yesterday while looking for some papers in the ruins of the safe blown open by narcotic thieves in the Sewell Drug Store some time last Saturday night or early Sunday morning. The wedding ring of Mr. Sewell's mother, the late Mrs. S. Sewell, was in a regular ring container inside the safe. Last Sunday, when looking through the safe the fragments of the container were found but the ring was missing. Mr. Sewell assumed the ring had been taken by the thieves or that it had been blown to some other part of the building by the force of the explosion. But yesterday, while looking for papers which had been

Three Killed As Auto Hit By Fire Truck

Houston, Jan. 8. (AP)—Three men were killed last night when a fire truck and an automobile collided at the same downtown intersection where two fire trucks collided July 29 when two fire trucks collided.

The truck hit the car broadside and knocked it into the Southern Electric Supply Co., the same building damaged when the two trucks collided in July.

The dead: Frank Catino, 65, acting fire captain and fire department employee 35 years.

Edward Mitchell, 19, and Linwood O. Slaydon, 19, both natives of Picayune, Miss.

Mitchell died on his 19th birthday. Both Mitchell and Slaydon were hurled from the automobile through a plate glass window at Southern Electric. The bodies were dug out of the rubble after a wall of the building collapsed.

12 Must Report For Induction

Twelve young Vernon men have been ordered to report for induction into the armed forces in the first 1954 call of Local Board No. 131, Selective Service System. Three residents of Quanah and one of Goodlett complete the list released Friday.

The men will report at 6:45 a. m. Friday, Jan. 22 at the Wilbar County Courthouse for transport to the Army Deduction Center at Amarillo.

Vernon men on the order are Kenneth John Reis, Charles Loyd Wilhelm, James Allen Rathgeber, Gerald Lee Sylvester, Garland Wayne Gibbs, James Tull, Jr., Danny Lee Reynolds, Billy Joe Peters, Hilton Cody Austin, Don Frank Goughly, Harold Franklin Bartow and Billy Gene Pollard. The last-named is a transfer from Rusk.

Robert Gerald Malone is the Goodlett resident and those from Quanah are John Calvin Bremer, Ronald Ross Jones and Howard Thomas Pittman.

Physicals Scheduled
The local board has received a call for 25 men for pre-induction physical examination, to report Jan. 25.

College students ordered for induction, the board pointed out, are entitled during the academic year to exemption if they are satisfactorily pursuing full-time college courses. They are required to make written requests for exemption and file written statements from college officials with the local boards.

It was stressed that this action must be taken by students immediately upon receipt of orders to report for induction. If doubts exist as to procedure, students are advised they should ask local boards for full information.

Draft officials again explained that any registrant may transfer through a local board in the area where residing to fulfill orders from original board.

Acres Measure May Be Taken Up In Senate Monday

Washington, Jan. 8. (AP)—Congress hopes to get some action on a cotton acreage allotment bill before farmers in the Deep South start planting their cotton.

The Senate Agriculture Committee passed a 21-million acre bill yesterday and hopes the Senate will take it up Monday.

As soon as the whole Senate takes action, the bill will go into a joint Senate-House conference committee, for the House passed a similar bill last Summer.

Versions Vary
The Senate version calls for 21,380,000 acres which cotton growers can plant this year under the production control program.

The House version calls for 22½ million acres.

If Congress doesn't pass a cotton acreage bill, farmers will get ready to plant only 17,910,000 acres—the figure set by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Farmers harvested some 24,800,000 acres in 1953 and more than 25 million in 1952.

Senate Version
Under the Senate bill an individual farmer would be permitted to plant the larger of these: (1) 65 per cent of his average plantings for the years 1951 through 1953, or (2) 40 per cent of his largest planting in any one of those years. In any case, he can't plant more than 50 per cent of his total crop land to cotton.

The measure would provide that where a farmer doesn't use all of his allotment he could surrender the unused part to the county cotton committee which could reallocate it or turn it back to the state committee. The farmer surrendering the acreage, however, could retain the allotment in his planting history for future years.

Free World Approves Talk Of President

London, Jan. 8. (AP)—President Eisenhower's State of the Union message won wide approval throughout the free world today. Especially applauded were his call for freer trade and proposals that the United States share atomic secrets with its allies.

Japanese political leaders and newspapers, however, expressed disappointment at the President's statement that the United States would "maintain indefinitely" bases on Okinawa. The Japanese have long hoped for restoration of their sovereignty over the island. All Tokyo newspapers carried editorials criticizing the President's stand.

Chester Davenport Caught By FBI in California

Fairfield, Calif., Jan. 8. (AP)—Chester Lee Davenport, Southwestern cattle rustler, escape artist and one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, was in jail here today after nearly six months of "behaving like a very normal citizen."

The 31-year-old Wichita Falls, Texas, fugitive was surprised by a posse yesterday as he milked a cow at a dairy at nearby Dixon. He had worked there since shortly after his escape from the State Reformatory at Granite, Okla., July 4.

The stocky, 180-pound Davenport readily admitted his identity. Arraigned Friday

He was to be arraigned late today in San Francisco on fugitive charges. U. S. Commissioner Adelia McCabe at Sacramento declined to reopen her office last night for arraignment of "such a pip-squeak."

Dixon Police Chief Lester Peters said Davenport had been "holing up in this small community, behaving like a very normal citizen."

Davenport was discovered, he said, by Dr. R. J. Cobble, a Dixon veterinarian who saw a picture of Davenport in the Vallejo News-Chronicle and recognized it as "Floyd B. Tucker," the name the fugitive used.

Court Studies Texas Attitude Toward Yankees

Wichita Falls, Jan. 8. (AP)—Is it possible for "Northerners" to get a fair trial in Wichita County?

That is the question Dist. Judge Alan B. Haley's court was trying to decide today. Judge Haley recessed the hearing last night after two days of conflicting testimony.

Attorneys of Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield, embroiled in a legal battle with the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, say their clients—Bromfield and two associates—cannot get a fair trial because of "prejudice here against people from the North."

Ten prominent businessmen, however, testified they believed a fair trial could be held. One said he came to Wichita Falls from Iowa and had never noticed any prejudice against "Northerners" in Wichita County.

Ranchers Agree
Three ranchers seemed equally sure that a fair trial for Bromfield, R. F. Cullar and Robert W. Hugu would be impossible here.

The suit involves a 411-acre farm which the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce deeded to Bromfield in 1949 for development into a model experiment station.

Last May, the chamber sued Bromfield, Cullar and Hugu for $50,000 damages. It claimed the project wasn't run diligently enough and that the title to the farm was to have reverted to the chamber on Jan. 1, 1953.

Second Life He Saved
In Boston, another Korean War veteran, John F. Norton, credited Moran with saving his life three years ago. Norton said Moran threw him to the ground while they were in Korea, and shielded him from a spray of bullets that whined overhead.

The Ft. Dix commanding general, Maj. Gen. C. P. Ryan, said last night Moran would be recommended for a posthumous medal if the facts disclosed in a preliminary investigation of yesterday's incident are borne out.

Two Cool Fronts Head for Texas

(By The Associated Press)
Cooler weather for Texas was indicated Friday afternoon as two weather fronts—both bearing cooler temperatures—crept slowly toward the State.

One was headed toward Texas from the west, the other from the north, Nebraska and Kansas. Should one or the other fronts hit the State, cooler weather for East Texas and South Central Texas seemed certain for Saturday. The Weather Bureau said it was possible the northern might veer eastward before entering Texas.

Winds which kicked up some dust in West Texas localities Thursday had subsided some Friday morning. Temperatures remained comparatively mild with no point in the State reporting freezing levels. The range was from 33 at Salt Flat to 60 at Brownsville.

Use of Cross-Filed Ballot Flayed by State Official

Fort Worth, Jan. 8. (AP)—Agriculture Commissioner John C. White wants to know, "How much longer will we let the Republicans ride us piggy-back to victory on a cross-filed ballot?"

He asked the question in a speech here Thursday night in which he talked more and more like the candidate for governor he has previously hinted he might be.

White, speaking before a meeting of Tarrant County Democratic Party organizations, made it plain he thought little of any public official who accepted cross-filing of his name.

Gov. Allan Shivers, whom White may oppose in a race for the governorship, endorsed the Democratic-Eisenhower movement in 1952, allowed his name cross-filed on the GOP ballot, and helped carry Texas for the Republicans.

Called No Names
The Agriculture Commissioner—only State official who refused Republican cross-filing in 1952—did not refer to anyone by name.

White's speech made it obvious the redhead from Wichita Falls will make cross-filing an issue if he and Shivers should become opponents.

"When a man cannot reconcile his personal beliefs with those of his party, then he should sever his connections with that party," said White.

"But under no circumstances should he use his conflicting opinions as an excuse to betray his party."

"And that is the most damning charge that can be made against some of our public officials during the year of 1952."

"The voting citizen has the privilege of accepting or refusing party principles and policies when he goes to the polls," said White.

"He can vote for any man he feels will best serve the interest of the country. That is the American way."

'Should Take Oath'
"But there is something wrong when the public official selected by the people refuses those policies for which he was elected to uphold and turns over his leadership to the opposition."

"The voting public need not be bound by a loyalty oath, my friends. Instead, some of our public officials should be required to take an oath of integrity."

White said the Republican Party—"hamstrung by principles as ancient as Noah's Ark—is frantically seeking to gain a foothold in the State of Texas."

"It's corrosive influence has tainted our state in high policy-making levels," he continued.

"The best preservative I know of is the oil of public opinion as it is expressed at the polls."

"I know the people of Texas will reaffirm its faith in the Democratic Party in the primaries of 1954."

White said he hoped Fort Worth, the scene of his first address this year, will be known not only as the beginning of the West but also "as the place where, in 1954, the movement began toward the revival of the Democratic Party in our great State of Texas."

"In recent years, the party banner has been converted into a blanket that covers a number of strange bedfellows," he said.

White said he strongly suspects that a large number of these bedfellows "are actually Republicans without the courage to openly assert their political convictions."

"Cross-filing in Texas is a blessing for Republicans and a curse for the Democrats. If we allow this brand of political lechery to exist in our state, we are doomed to an era of fetid and confused politics."

United States Likely Target For New Rockets

Berlin, Jan. 8. (AP)—East Germany's top military commentator made the bristling boast today that the Russians and their Communist allies could quickly overrun Europe in case of war and destroy the NATO armies. He hinted the United States also would be in for a pasting by trans-Atlantic rockets.

This warning to the West was contained in an article in the Communist press by former Nazi fighter pilot Egbert von Frankenberg, who has become the East Berlin Radio's chief expert on military affairs.

Solution Possible
Von Frankenberg said the coming four-power conference of foreign ministers here Jan. 25 could bring a solution to the cold war, but if it didn't this is what the Soviet forces could do, assuming the West started a war:

"Soviet long-range bombers could reach all points of the rear operation area and the home war area of the enemy. The twin rocket suited for trans-Atlantic purposes has been further developed."

"The new authors of mobile strategy against the East should consider that with a depth of 150 miles in West Germany, Soviet tanks, in a counter-thrust, would reach the French border within seven days; planes would fly over that territory in 15 minutes; Hamburg, Kassel and Coburg would be front cities in a jiffy."

Electronic Weapons
He said the Russians have developed electronic anti-aircraft weapons "and other surprises which would not permit the West German mercenary pilots to get far in case of war."

The Red press commented that Frankenberg's views were "useful in order to destroy false assumptions that the Soviet Union's love of peace and readiness for negotiations is due to weakness."

Shoulders Enters Innocent Plea

Kansas City, Jan. 8. (AP)—Former Police Lt. Louis Shoulders of St. Louis, captor of the Greenpeace kidnapers, pleaded innocent in Federal Court today to a charge of perjury in connection with his account of what happened to the $600,000 ransom money in the case.

The kidnapers, Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Headly, whom Shoulders arrested in St. Louis, were executed Dec. 18 for the kidnap-murder of 6-year-old Bobby Greenpeace, son of a Kansas City multimillionaire, Robert C. Greenpeace.

Only half the ransom money has been recovered. Hall insisted up to his death that he had approximately $592,000 with him when he was taken into custody by Shoulders and Patrolman Elmer Dolan Oct. 6.

Eisenhower Begins Fight To Push Through Program

BY JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Jan. 8. (P)—President Eisenhower today was right in the middle of a fight for the program he laid down yesterday and on which he stakes the success of his Republican Party.

On Dec. 2, speaking of November's congressional elections, Eisenhower said the Republicans did not deserve to retain control of Congress unless they put through a "progressive, dynamic program."

Applause interrupted him 45 times during his 54-minute State of the Union message to Congress.

And afterwards leaders of his party expressed the usual, expected praise.

Only An Outline
Although he made it abundantly clear the message was only an outline of his program, and that he would fill it in rapidly with special messages, a tiny handful of members bitterly dismissed it as a "hodge-podge" full of "platitudes."

But it was the opposition expressed, even by members of his own party, on some major points in his program, that served him full notice he must assert leadership to get it through.

Last year, a period of learning his job and preparing the program he produced yesterday, he may have felt he could afford the compromise on many issues.

This year, if he compromises when the opposition isn't strong enough to defeat him, then he can be accused of abdicating leadership for the sake of being liked.

Worked Last Night
Last night, as illustration of the fight ahead, he was reported busy in the White House trying to work out a compromise on the proposal of Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to limit the treaty-making power.

It's not at all clear Eisenhower has to compromise for it is debatable that Bricker has sufficient support to put over his idea if Eisenhower decides to fight him to a standstill.

Two examples of the struggle facing the President came from members of his own party, immediately after the message, on two of the programs most important to him: Farm and taxes.

House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) said he rather expects the tax program—Eisenhower pledged future tax cuts while asking postponement of scheduled reductions—"is where we will have our biggest difficulty."

Divided Over Supports
He predicted a good part of the program would pass. But when Eisenhower suggested a program of flexible price supports for farmers, instead of fixed ones, he ran into real trouble, since feeling on this is so divided.

Eisenhower got his biggest hand from Democrats and Republicans alike when he proposed that Communists convicted of conspiracy to overthrow the government be deprived of citizenship.

If a quick poll had been taken it might have disclosed most members were applauding more because the idea seemed all right at the time than because they understood what they were being asked to do or how to do it.

"I'm not guilty of anything," she said grimly from her cell. "and I don't owe anybody anything. I'm going to stick it out."

A hearing is planned in which the State will try to establish a lien against apartments owned elsewhere in the city than Riverside Drive in order to collect her fine. No date has been set.

Segregation Program Fails in South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa, Jan. 8. (P)—Premier Daniel Malan's Nationalist Government has failed to sell its racial segregation program to South Africa's most moderate group of native leaders.

Outright rejection of Malan's Apartheid segregation program was voted at the conclusion of the four-day Location Advisory Board Congress—the moderate native group. Speakers from both national and municipal governments had explained in detail to the Congress the Apartheid program, including plans for removing natives from overcrowded municipal areas to less populated sections.

The Malan spokesmen said the relocation would reduce racial friction.

The Nationalist Government has advised an educational program for natives different from that for whites. A government representative to the Congress said the program for the natives would better equip them for the place the Malanites think they should have in South African society.

Lockett Whips Vernon B Team in Harrold Tourney

Jack Russum Nets 30 Points For Winners

Two Lockett forwards combined Thursday night to send the Vernon B team down to a smashing 46-70 defeat in the opening round of the Harrold Invitational basketball tournament.

Jack Russum canned 30 points and his colleague, Douglas McKay meshed 22. Jerry Pearson was high for Vernon with 13.

The Lockett team will meet Burk Burnett at 8:40 p. m. Friday in a semi-final game.

Russum got most of his points on push shots from near the key-hole and in a corner, while McKay netted his on hooks and jumps near the free throw line.

All-Star Football Games Okayed by NCAA Official

Cincinnati, (AP)—An NCAA spokesman says he finds no fault with the way the Texas High School Coaches Assn. runs its high school all-star football games.

K. L. (Tug) Wilson, Big Ten Conference commissioner and chairman of the NCAA committee to study such games, made the statement yesterday.

He met with Pat Gerald, president of the Texas coaches group, and publicity director Stan Lambert. They're here for the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. annual meeting.

Wilson said he could find no fault with the conduct of the association-sponsored all-star games in Texas.

Gerald announced the annual North-South All-Star football game sponsored by the Texas Association may be switched this year from Friday night to Saturday night, Aug. 14, because the College All-Star-Detroit Lions game will be televised Friday, Aug. 13.

The Association's annual school and all-star basketball and football games will be in Dallas this year.

SECOND DISTRICT GAME

Lions Play Breckenridge Friday

Vernon's hard-pressed Lions left for Breckenridge about noon Friday in quest of what they hoped would be their first District 1-AAA victory.

While the quality of Breckenridge's football teams is well known, the basketball team's worth is not yet proved. Coach Bob Percival has no advance information on the team's record.

The Vernon team has a record of six wins and six losses, with one of the defeats a district decision to Plainview Tuesday night.

Coach Percival plans to go with the same lineup which started the Plainview game. It will consist of Gene Miller at center, Jack Bolton and Dick Lowke at forwards and Chris Krebs and Carl Franks at guards. But he plans to insert Bobbie Harvey and Ronnie Zaick into the lineup with much frequency.

The Lions have defeated Roby and Lawton, Okla., twice each and Archer City and Quail once each. In addition to the Plainview loss, they have been decisively defeated by Wichita Falls, Chillicothe, Nocona, Abertnathy and Burk Burnett.

Along The Sideline:

Comments by Cates

Proof that the little man has a place in the roughest of all contact sports, football, has been displayed by men like Doak Walker and Davey O'Brien, but prior to the 1930s the small fellow was a rarity in the sport.

Vernon has one graduate who played with the big boys during the early 1920s. Soaking wet he weighed in at 135 pounds.

Eck Curtis, backfield coach at the University of Texas, hurled strikes for Vernon immediately following World War I and for Abilene Christian College a few years after the war. He finally managed to tip the scales at 145 pounds during his college days.

Eck is an ivory hunter for the Longhorns, in addition to his coaching duties. He patrols all of West Texas this side of Fort Worth, contacting Texas exes and others. One of the points Eck has to counter in his efforts to convince promising high school boys they should attend the University is the argument advanced by other scouts that the boys would be lost among the huge number of athletes given scholarships there.

The little coach says more scholarships are given on an overall basis, but that no more are tendered the football department than any other school in the Southwest Conference.

Eck has seen a lot of football since he tucked his sheepskin under his arm in 1925. He has fielded teams at Anson, Ranger, Breckenridge, Highland Park, Electra and the University.

Most of the players who were his teammates at Vernon have moved away. But a player on the team of his era still is in town. Evans Mason, a vice president of the Waggoner National Bank, was called a scrappy little guard by Mr. Curtis.

Eck remembers that he almost didn't get to play football in Vernon. Several years previous to the time he enrolled in high school a boy had been killed in a grid game and the school had discontinued football. By dint of much persuasion and effort, Eck and some friends convinced the school superintendent football should be resumed.

The school had no uniforms or a coach. But that was soon remedied. Bill Berry, now owner of the Model Cleaners, took the job without pay, and money to buy uniforms was raised by solicitation of local merchants.

The former Vernon quarterback went to Texas University as freshman coach in 1946. He taught the mechanics of the T formation to the freshmen. He was brought to the Longhorn school by Danna Bible, football coach at that time, and now athletic director.

Mr. Bible was a single and double wing proponent, but Blair Cherry, the man whom he had picked to succeed him the following year was a T man, so he wanted his newest recruits to be grounded in the fundamentals of the T attack. Eck was moved up to the varsity coaching post the following year.

North Favored In Senior Bowl

Mobile, Ala. (AP)—The weather and the experts are favoring the South in tomorrow's Senior Bowl football game, but weight and victories by Coach Paul Brown in the last two contests are on the North's side.

The weatherman has promised a rainless day with the temperature near 70 for this fifth annual contest in which college seniors make their professional debuts.

And South Coach Steve Owen is expected to match the warm weather with the sizzling right arm of Georgia's Zeke Bratowski, who led the Southeastern Conference this past season by completing 113 of 224 tosses for 1,461 yards.

The Brat, with two rangy ends as targets, is one of the main reasons the South has been established and Dave Davis of Georgia Tech, both 6 feet 4, are the ends.

The North line, led by 256-pound Bob Fleck of Syracuse, may be able, however, to spring its big backs through the lighter South forward wall enough to match the passing of Bratowski. Auburn's Vince Dooley and East Texas Teachers' Jim Gray.

U. S.-Canadian Grid War Begins

Philadelphia, (AP)—The National Football League and the Canadian Professional Leagues, were at open "war" today with the cream of American football players as the booty.

The long-time friction over contracting players between the U. S. league and its northern rivals erupted yesterday in a series of charges, counter-charges and counter-counter-charges.

Orville Burke, vice president of the Calgary Stampede, said an all-out war over players was in the offing and accused the NFL of hiring a "propagandist" to slander the Canadian game and persuade U. S. college players to stay home.

The NFL's voluble Commissioner, Bert Bell, replied "if they (the Canadian leagues) want a war over players we'll give them one. At least we haven't gone out and signed players we knew were under contract to somebody else the way they did."

Asked about the "propagandist" charge, Bell replied: "If he means we are telling the American players the truth about the Canadian football, then we've hired a propagandist."

Bell said the NFL had hired a man to go on the road and tell the graduating college football players the difference between American and Canadian pro football conditions.

Bell identified the NFL representative as Bob Snyder, former coach of Burke's Calgary team. Snyder also was criticized by Burke for remarks Burke said were quoted in a San Francisco paper that there was "enmity between Canadian and American players on Canadian teams."

HIGH SCHOOL MEET STARTS
Houston, (AP)—The 15th annual Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce High School Basketball Tournament started today with Milby (Houston) and Crozier Tech (Dallas) favored. In this afternoon's first round Milby took on Alamo Heights (San Antonio) and Crozier Tech met St. Thomas (Houston).

visited their parents and friends in Vernon Wednesday and Thursday before returning to Austin, where he is backfield coach at Texas University.

Eck Curtis Predicts Texas Football Favorite in 1954

Vernon's gift to the big leagues of college football, Eck Curtis, backfield coach at the University of Texas, is fearful the role of favorite will be fastened on the Longhorns at the start of next season's gridiron warfare.

That such a tag is not applicable Mr. Curtis will not deny, but time has proven favorites more often fall from grace than not.

Mr. Curtis and his wife left Friday for Austin after a two-week visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Curtis of 2422 Texas Street.

The graying little former Vernon quarterback Thursday took a backward trip down memory lane to recall some of the highlights of his football career, both as a coach and a player.

He made his mark on the high school gridiron at Vernon in 1919 and 1920, and at Abilene Christian College from 1921 through 1924. Mr. Curtis weighed 135 pounds in his high school days and 145 while at college.

After receiving his sheepskin in 1925, Mr. Curtis began following the career that has taken him from a small school in West Texas to one of the biggest and most affluent colleges in the land. On his way to the top, he managed to win about 10 district titles, an unofficial State title and to tie for another Texas championship.

Seven of the district titles came at Breckenridge during the time he was there, from 1935 to 1944. The unofficial championship came about as a result of a defeat his Anson team handed Marlin on Jan. 1, 1927.

Oklahoma Edges Harrold in Meet

Oklahoma hurried to a 54-43 win over Harrold Thursday in opening play of the Harrold basketball tournament. Lishel Beebe and Tom Allen Bell were tops in scoring for the winners with 16 points each. Jackie Mote crammed in 19 for the losers.

The winning team will meet Northside at 6:30 p. m. Friday. Northside drew a bye in opening round play.

In other play at the tournament, Odell dropped a 46-56 decision to Valley View. Grover Phillips crammed in 21 points for Odell, while James Lucey got 18 for the winners. Valley View will engage Chillicothe at 7:20 p. m. Friday in a semi-final encounter.

Fargo Gin Crushes Vernon In Northside Tournament

Fargo Gin shelled the Vernon Independents, 48-34, Thursday night to get the Northside Independent basketball tournament underway.

Mark Belew, center, led the way for the winners with 22 points, while Gordie Harvey, Vernon forward, was high for his team with 10.

In the two other games, Vernon Manufacturing Company whipped Phillips Camp, 42-35, and Garrett and Herron Furniture Company of Altus, Okla., mauled Preston Market from the same city, 78-43.

Another game between United Grocery of Vernon and Blair was cancelled when the Oklahoma team failed to show. United moved into the semifinals by default.

To fill the vacancy which would have resulted because of the Oklahoma team's failure to show, two girls teams—the Vernon Independents and Garrett and Herron from Altus—will play at 8:30 p. m. Friday.

Other activity scheduled for Friday night are a consolation game between Vernon Independents and Phillips Camp at 6:30, Fargo Gin vs Vernon Manufacturing Company at 7:30 and United Grocery vs Garrett and Herron at 9:30.

Final games in the consolation and winners brackets will be run off Saturday night. Also scheduled for play prior to the final tourney games are tilts between the seventh and eighth grade teams of Odell and Northside. The first game starts at 5:45 p. m. Saturday.

Dicky Moegle, Rice Back, Named to All-Star Team

Dallas, (AP)—Fleet Rice halfback Dicky Moegle is the newest member of the all-time Cotton Bowl football team.

Moegle, who ran for 265 yards and three touchdowns against Alabama, was named yesterday to the first team, replacing Glenn Dobbs. Dobbs got on in 1944 when, as quarterback for Randolph Field, he led the Ramblers to a 7-7 tie with Texas.

Moegle's elevation was the only change made by the committee which selects the team. Committee members are Bill Rives, Dallas News; Harold V. Ratliff, Associated Press; Jere R. Hayes, Dallas Times Herald; Ed Fite, United Press; and Leonard Saffir, International News Service.

Dan Hart, Rice end, and Dick Chapman, Rice tackle, ranked 1-2 in the balloting of sports writers on outstanding linemen of the Cotton Bowl game which Rice won 28-6, were placed on the honorable mention list.

The all-time Cotton Bowl team, covering 18 games, now reads: Ends—Holt Rast, Alabama (1942), and James Williams, Rice (1950); tackles—Jim Kekeris, of Missouri (1946), and Martin Ruby, Texas A&M (1942) and Randolph Field (1944); guards—

Charles Henke, Texas A&M (1941), and Jack Freeman, Texas (1943); center—Kl Alzrich, Texas Christian (1937); quarterback—Sam Baugh, Texas Christian (1937); halfbacks—Bobby Layne, Texas (1946), and Dick Moegle, Rice (1954); fullback—John Kimbrough, Texas A&M (1941).

Christian Science Lesson-Sermon

That purity is basic to spiritual progress will be the theme of the Lesson - Sermon entitled "Sacrament" to be read this Sunday in Christian Science churches.

The following passage will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We should strive to reach the Horeb height where God is revealed; and the cornerstone of all spiritual building is purity. The baptism of Spirit, washing the body of all the impurities of flesh, signifies that the pure in heart see God and are approaching spiritual life and its demonstration" (241:24).

This correlative Bible selection will also be included: "Let the words of my youth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer" (Psalms 19:14). Th Golden Text is from Galatians: "Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ" (3:26, 27).

"JESUS shall reign where e'er the sun does his successive journeys run." That is the radiant faith of every true Christian. We are sure of the world's need of the light that flows from the sacred page and from the candles that we have lighted before Him who is the Light of the world. We are equally confident that our Christ has what a needy world must have for its health and its salvation. The needy world and the adequate Lord must be brought together; wherever He has been preached men have called the message 'Good News' and darkened places have become bright with promise and with assurance of final redemption.

BUT who is to win the world for Christ? Will He not draw all men to himself if He is but lifted up? And how can that be done? Of course the preachers must do their part and missionaries must be trained to travel every sea in His service. The air ships must become bearers of the Eternal Word, the Bread of Life, even as they are chartered to carry the products of human industry. They link nation to nation and continent to continent for the commerce of the spirit as well as for the spreading of human goods. That means that you and I shall become the everyday ambassadors of the Gospel, that every ship whether of the sea or of the air, on which we travel shall be pressed into the service of the Lord of Life. In other words, we must have done with the old slogan, 'Let George do it.' Every land is a missionary land and every Christian must become responsible for the spreading of the Gospel. The early Christians carried the news of God's love and grace wherever they traveled around the earth; Paul and Barnabas were but two of a mighty company who were sent out by the Spirit of God. Let your light shine! Go to Church regularly.

The Gospel of John

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

DURING the early part of 1954 many Sunday schools will be studying the Gospel of John. A word or two concerning that Gospel may be of help.

I had the advantage of a brilliant exposition and analysis of the Gospel by the late Wilbur W. White at some student conferences many years ago, the memory and effect of which have been with me ever since.

The Gospel of John begins not with a record of events, as in the other three Gospels, but with a prologue, or thesis. In this prologue the author sets forth his belief in Jesus as the Eternal Word, the Word which was in the beginning, was with God and was God (John 1:1). It is a plain statement of the divinity of Christ.

Dr. White represented all that follows in the Gospel as the evidences of what the author had set out to prove: the witness of Jesus' mighty works, the witness of the Samaritan woman, the witness of various incidents, the witness of Jesus Himself, and the crowning witness of the Resurrection.

Despite its nature and its witness, the Gospel of John has been the subject of keen controversy. From the apparent late date of its appearance and doubt concerning whether its author was the Apostle John, some have questioned its authenticity. Others have seen in the fourth Gospel the addition, the crowning and the climax of all that had gone before in the Gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke.

For me, the Gospel of John bears its own evidence concerning its authenticity. Its incidents in their plain narration bear the mark of truth.

Could anyone have invented them and the discourses of Jesus, which surely have the mark of remembrance?

The three so-called Synoptic Gospels are rich and full, but even with their richness think of all we should miss if we did not have this fourth Gospel!

There is the story of Nicodemus, the long account of the meeting of Jesus and the Woman of Samaria, with its great words concerning worship; the association of truth and freedom in John 8, the ringing testimony of John 9, the picture of the Good Shepherd, the mystic words about union with Christ, the branch and the vine.

Besides being a source of great conversations and incidents, the Gospel of John is a source of great texts, such as John 3:16, the concentrated expression of the Gospel of God's love for the world; the nature of true worship (John 4:23, 24); "the truth shall make you free" (John 8:32); and the comforting words concerning immortality in John 14.

And the Gospel ends on its sense of the immensity of the Christ and all that pertains to Him. The books that might have been written are only a part of the on-going life of the Master as He lives and acts in the lives of the multitude of disciples who love and follow Him. These, too, are continuing witnesses.

Mrs. Peeble On Men And Money

Hometown, U. S. A. (C)—"What makes men hold on to their money so?" demanded Trellis Mae Peeble, America's most average housewife.

Wilbur lowered his morning newspaper until their eyes met across the breakfast table.

"Dear," he said, "a wife's conversation is like a jigsaw puzzle—it takes a fellow some time to make any kind of pattern out of it. What are you trying to get at? I don't know any man who is holding on to his money."

"Well, Winthrop Rockefeller, I read it in the newspaper before you got up."

"Is he? How does he do it?"

"By refusing to give it to Bobo."

"What's a Bobo?"

"Oh, don't act so dumb. Bobo is Winthrop's wife," said Trellis Mae, who always spoke of famous people by their first name.

"Why won't he give it to Bobo?" replied Wilbur, who was trying to read an article about the electric power problem in India.

"Well, they are separated, and Winthrop moved to Arkansas to settle $6 million on her, but his lawyer says Bobo is holding out for $10 million. Isn't that a silly thing to quarrel over?"

"It could be a matter of principle," said Wilbur. "And $4 million is a pretty big principle."

"If she takes the $6 million," mused Trellis Mae, "it says she could invest it so as to get about 120,000 tax-free dollars a year. That's not so much, is it?"

"Only about 325 bucks or so a day, including Sundays and the 29th of February during Leap Years," dryly remarked her husband. "But, of course, if she took it in silver dollars it would make quite a jingle in her purse."

"Whose side are you on, anyway?" asked his wife.

"I don't believe in mixing in family quarrels. I wish they'd kiss and make up—even if it puts 50 divorce lawyers in a breadline."

"Well, I certainly think you'd be more generous than Winthrop. Remember what you told me when we had our first big quarrel and I threatened to leave you?"

"No, indeed," said Wilbur cautiously.

"You told me I could have half of everything you owned."

"Yeah, that was nice of me. But what did I own then?"

"You didn't own anything. You were even overdrawn at the bank."

"Well," said Wilbur, "if Winthrop was in the same spot I was, I'll bet he'd be just as big a sport about it. You always have to take the circumstances into consideration. Why didn't you leave me, anyway?"

"With no carfare and mother 300 miles away?" laughed Trellis Mae. "A girl has to be practical. I wouldn't leave you even if you made the same offer again today to give me half of everything we have in the bank."

Wilbur looked at her suspiciously.

"Is our account overdrawn?"

"Yeah, that was nice of me. But what did I own then?"

"You didn't own anything. You were even overdrawn at the bank."

"Well," said Wilbur, "if Winthrop was in the same spot I was, I'll bet he'd be just as big a sport about it. You always have to take the circumstances into consideration. Why didn't you leave me, anyway?"

THE TALK OF THE TOWN

XVII
ALTHOUGH Albert Symes had never been one of her favorite pupils, Miss Cora Johnson had been bound to admit, before the theft of her letters, that his school work passed muster.

Albert was by no means brilliant, or avid to learn. Rather, he had given her the impression of doing just sufficiently well to get by. But his grades were generally satisfactory and Miss Johnson could find no real fault with him.

His conduct, too, had been good enough. Shrewd and seemingly old for his years, Albert had never indulged in the profligate antics by which more robust boys found dubious outlets.

However, of late weeks Albert had changed.

In a fashion that she came eventually to think of as "studied," Albert began contriving to make a nuisance of himself.

Initially Miss Johnson was conscious that Albert's homework assignments were either done badly or not done at all. Next there was a definite trend toward inattention on his part. Both inattention to herself, and to the normal routine of the classroom.

At first these things did not disturb Miss Johnson. She knew there were strange description-defying periods in the lives of pre-adolescents which were often characterized by what she thought of as a sort of natural "mooniness," during which the best of pupils were apt to become difficult and unsatisfactory.

Possibly Albert Symes was entering into one of these periods. But as time went on, Miss Johnson decided that there was more than mere mooniness in Albert's attitude. Patently the boy had set out to make a nuisance of himself in a variety of surreptitious ways.

again?" he demanded. Trellis Mae nodded.

"I thought this conversation finally would lead somewhere," said Wilbur crossly. "Why can't you be more careful about your check stubs?"

"I will," promised his wife. Grumbling as he started to leave for work, Wilbur held out his hand for his usual $2 lunch money and

"Whose side are you on, anyway?" asked his wife.

"I don't believe in mixing in family quarrels. I wish they'd kiss and make up—even if it puts 50 divorce lawyers in a breadline."

Wilbur looked at her suspiciously.

"Is our account overdrawn?"

There were intermittent foot-scurfings and fidgetings that she considered abnormally prolonged.

And too often for accident, while she was trying to bring the class to order at assembly or dismissal, things—pens, pencils, rulers and such schoolroom accessories—fell from Albert's desk at just the right moments to cause a maximum of distraction amongst others in his immediate neighborhood.

It was as if Albert Symes felt perfectly sure of himself, disdainful of the teacher, and able, without fear of reprisal, to flout her authority. And if he chose to do so by small and insignificant annoyances—well, that was Albert's privilege.

The meanness and insignificance did not surprise Miss Johnson. His new attitude, however, was highly puzzling to her.

It was just as obvious that Albert's attitude was in some manner connected with the acts of his mother. But that black-browed, hard and cynical Mrs. Symes would have given her son to understand that he had suddenly been placed in a privileged position, above the restrictions imposed upon his fellow students, was inconceivable. Rather, Mrs. Symes had conveyed the impression to Miss Johnson of being willing to deal rough-handedly with Albert, should the occasion demand.

Miss Johnson, trying to spare even Albert such a painful occasion, spoke to the youth several times. For her trouble she received that same studied inattention, spiced with a certain insolence.

One day she kept him after school in exasperation.

"Albert," she asked, bending over his desk where he sat with a sulky look on his face, "what cigarette allowance, Trellis Mae put only a single dollar in it.

"A buck for lunch," griped Wilbur. "A mouse can't live on that."

"My mouse can," said his wife. She kissed him.

"G'bye, Bobo," he said. "G'bye, Winthrop."

Albert scuffed his feet, but refused to meet her eyes. "Nothin'."

"It doesn't look like nothing to me," she said. "When a boy changes as completely as you have, there must be some reason. Has anything happened here at school? Or at—or elsewhere?"

"Nah!" The reply was slurring, surly. Then Albert deliberately twisted in his seat away from her.

"Albert! I'm speaking to you. And I'd like to have your attention."

"Well, I'm listenin'."

The boy snapped it out so impudently that Miss Johnson came within a hair of boxing his ears. She caught herself just in time. But she did take him by the chin. Firmly she turned his head around.

"Albert Symes, don't you ever speak to me that way again!"

Albert winced under the pressure of the teacher's fingers.

MISS JOHNSON would hardly have been human had she not felt satisfaction in watching this particular individual writhe.

But she took her hand away. "You deserve to be hurt worse than that," she said severely.

"Now then, perhaps you'll explain why you're acting the way you do? And you know very well what I mean. All this gazing out the window in class, and your fidgeting around, and your knocking things onto the floor. Those things are happening too often to be entirely accidental."

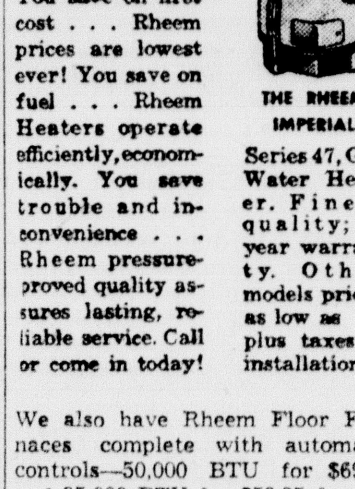

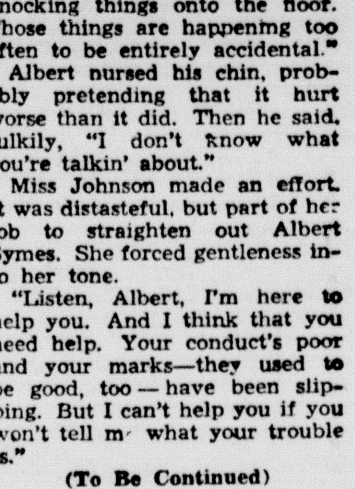

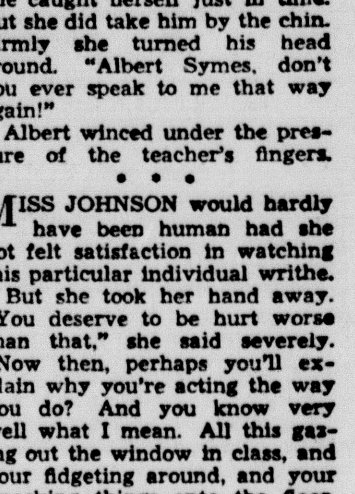

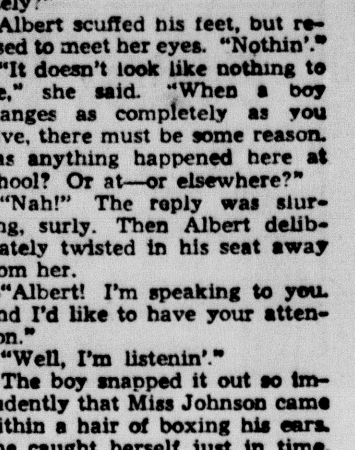

Albert nursed his chin, probably pretending that it hurt worse than it did. Then he said, sulky, "I don't know what you're talkin' about."

Miss Johnson made an effort. It was distasteful, but part of her job to straighten out Albert Symes. She forced gentleness into her tone.

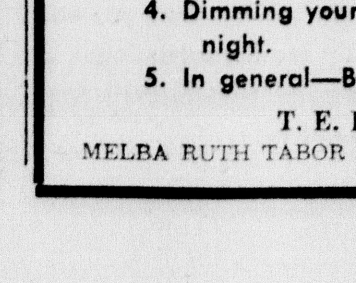

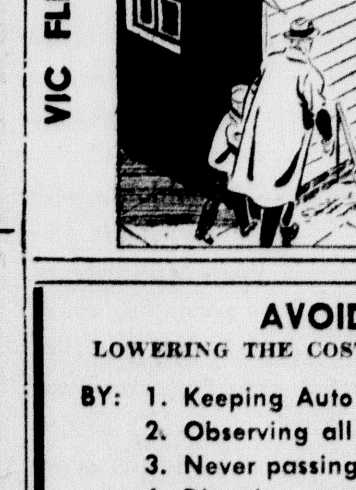

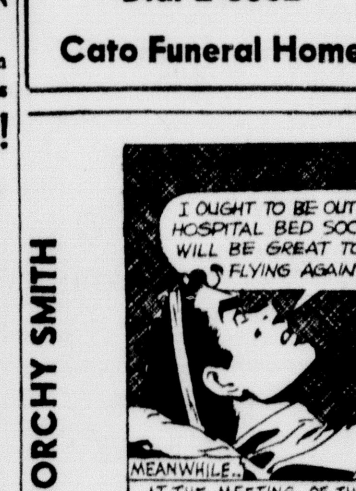

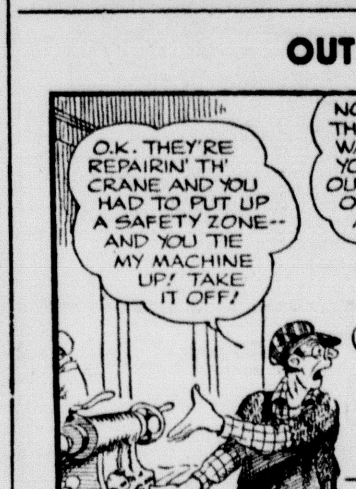

"Listen, Albert, I'm here to help you. And I think that you need help. Your conduct's poor and your marks—they used to be good, too—have been slipping. But I can't help you if you won't tell me what your trouble is."
